We Build for Tomorrow

.... in the School of Today

To Mr. Roy T. Hecketsweiler

- ... for serving as faculty adviser of the Trapeze for fourteen years—
 - ... for introducing many features now taken for granted in our newspaper—
 - ... for encouraging many students to enter publication work—
 - ... for making history classes interesting and informative—
 - ... for continuing to be a source of inspiration and help—

we, the editors, respectfully dedicate the Tabula of 1946.

In the School of Today . . .

"On you, the younger generation, is placed the hope of the world." This phrase, worn through much use, takes on a new and more vivid significance today. In making a pleasant, peaceful, well-managed world, we who have had the privilege of a good education must accept our responsibilities. We are now learning, in our work at school, the nature and extent of these responsibilities.

... We Build for Tomorrow

The seniors of today will shortly know whether they have built well—whether they are prepared to accept the challenge of the future. We complete our record of the school of today with those who will soon be the "citizens of tomorrow."

Dr. Eugene Youngert—Superintendent

We present Dr. Eugene Youngert . . . our adviser and guide. First introduced to our school in 1941, Dr. Youngert has since become our very good friend. As his ambitious plans for the school become realities, future students will find our school a well-equipped and up-to-date educational plant and an even better place of learning.

Administrators

The deans guide the students through the four high school years—listening to the woes of the bewildered freshman, helping organize the college program of a graduating senior.

Mr. Ray N. Ketcham, Mrs. Rosemaie Gregg—who took over Miss Eva Pring's duties for a short while this winter—and Miss Pring herself, successfully helped the freshmen bridge the gap between the lower grades and high school. Miss Velma Ball and Mr. Edward O'Brien prepared their sophomore charges for the privileges and responsibilities of upperclassmen. Mr. Harold Metcalf, at present working at Columbia University on a fellowship, Miss Bernice Hartmann, and Mr. Russell Fuog, acting dean, directed the activities of the junior class. Mr. L. H. Fritzscheier and Miss Ruth Horner counseled the seniors on college requirements and job possibilities. Behind the scenes, Mr. G. Alvin Wilson efficiently supervised the business and maintenance staffs.

Student Government

Student government in our school is carried out through the various councils.

Student Council is a body representative of the different classes. Eight freshmen, eight sophomores, ten juniors, and twelve seniors are elected to the Council by their respective classes. The main objective is to serve the school through committees. The Information Desk Committee, the Hall Guard Committee, and Safety Council are under the jurisdiction of Student Council.

Senior Council is a new student group organized this year to consider problems pertaining solely to the senior class.

The juniors have a separate council, to which each junior homeroom elects two Safety Council is concerned with all activities through which safety can be promoted among the students. Three details—the Traffic Sign Detail, the Parking Detail, and the Bicycle Detail—take care of most of the duties.

The Smoking Council holds "trials" every week as a means of enforcing the non-smoking laws.

These councils develop governing ability and leadership.

Commercial

Take a letter, Miss Jones! Perhaps that secretary carrying her book and pencil into the manager's office received her training in our Commercial Department. She can type seventy words a minute and take one hundred twenty words a minute in shorthand. She files with efficiency and operates the Comp-tometer.

To be found in the Office Practice room of the Commercial Department are such machines as: Addressograph, Mimeoscope, Graphotype, Ditto, Mimeograph, Monroe Calculator, Ediphone, and Dictaphone—mysteries to those of us who are not training for business professions.

Our students gain practical experience by performing many services for the school, such as typing report cards, making stencils, and filing.

The homemakers of tomorrow have been making out the budgets in the Home Management Course, measuring hems, and baking biscuits—learning, by these processes, efficiency and economy. These students have a chance to practice the art of being gracious hostesses by preparing and serving meals here at school.

Industrial Arts

The buzz of the surface grinder, the scratch of the pencil, the tap of the hammer, and the whir of the buffer mean that our future auto-mechanics, draftsmen, woodworkers, and jewelry designers are hard at work.

Games, wooden bed trays, and crutches were made by the wood-working classes. Part of the material for these projects was furnished by the Red Cross, who distributed the completed articles to hospitals for veterans and children, and gave public commendation to the classes who had made them.

An interesting part of the work in mechanical drawing was the making of blueprints and of black and whites.

The girls enrolled in the jewelry classes designed and produced decorative accessories — earrings, rings, and lapel pins.

Accurate craftsmanship and imaginative artistry were developed by the study of these skill subjects.

Mathematics

The experts in the use of the slide rule, logarithms, and formulae will be the engineers of tomorrow. The surveyor, trying to find a given distance and muttering "sine A equals a over c," not long before was demonstrating the Pythagorean Theorem to his Plane Geometry class and listening attentively to discussions of the various phases of math in Newton Club.

What's the answer?

Sciences

Because the plan of Freshman Science has been changed from a study of general science to that of health, we predict a change for the better in the health of the country as shown in the statistics of ten years from now.

Among those now learning the fundamentals of science may be one whose name will go down in history as a great benefactor of mankind. Perhaps someone who has been dissecting worms or making drawings of plants, may discover a cure for some animal or plant disease; someone who was recently occupied in swinging the sling psychrometer, may become a dispatcher at an airport; someone who has been brewing odoriferous concoctions, may develop a new plastic; someone who recently experimented to find his "horsepower," will harness the power of the atom.

Regular class activities are supplemented by the special programs presented in clubs sponsored by the Science Department.

Radio Club, closely connected with scientific activity, was organized to give the boys of the school some practical experience in making sets and to offer them opportunities to become acquainted with others interested in radio. This year their broadcasting station, which had been closed during the war, was reopened.

Two of the departmental clubs give the students of biology and chemistry a chance to take part in field trips and special experiments. For instance, Biology Club recently made a field trip to the Museum of Science and Industry, and Chemistry Club performed an experiment with liquid air.

The photography staff members, under the direction of Mr. Lane, make of their hobby a service to the school.

During the year, the boys have used more than 500 flash bulbs, at least a gross of 8" x 10" film, one-half gross of 5" x 7" film, and countless rolls of film of amateur size.

Projection Staff

From the hum of projectors and the whirling of reels we ordinarily visualize a movie projection booth. In our school we think of the sound room. Our program of visual education is extensive. Efficient management of the machines and expensive equipment is essential.

This year's staff of thirty-one boys who met the high standards required of school projectionists, took care of all audiographic projection and managed the mechanics of distribution.

Semester statistics showed a figure of 1738 classes served and a total of 2,160,000 feet of film shown.

The work of the staff was of inestimable value to the sixteen departments and the many clubs who used the visual education facilities, and of great interest to the student audiences.

Who will be giving the book reviews for women's clubs? Who will be making out technical reports to land promotion jobs or writing articles for professional publications? Who will be making the speeches in the state legislature? Perhaps, we will.

We are taught the importance of logical and forceful communication. We practice, through our language and debating clubs, classroom and social activities, the skill of clear expression.

The finished product

The Literary Tabula, written, edited, and illustrated by the students, is published in December and May.

This year's junior-senior staff, under the direction of Miss Rebecca Burt and Mr. Max T. Hohn, read the contributions of prose and poetry, selected the best to appear in the magazine, and prepared the format.

A sophomore staff, directed by Miss Margaret Hardie, assumed the responsibilities of the Vignettes. The two freshman staffs, under Miss Agnes Davis, compiled the section called Freshets.

As in the past, the Literary Tabula was an outstanding publication in 1945-46.

"Trapeze! Weekly Trapeze! Get your Traps over here!"

This weekly newspaper of Oak Park and River Forest High School reports the activities of official school functions, the latest doings of each class, sports news, club reports, and the most recent gossip. Editorials, amusing bits of prose and poetry, book reviews, and feature stories about outstanding seniors are written by interested contributors.

The editorial staff consisted of five members, rotating the position of editor-in-chief. These five, and the reporting staff of about thirty, were under the supervision of Mr. R. T. Hecketsweiler during the first semester of the past year. With the change in semester, Miss Ellen Shuart assumed the position of faculty adviser, with Mr. Hecketsweiler as consultant. The sixty members of the two new journalism classes acted as an additional corps of reporters.

Way back in September of '45, the editors of the senior annual began to plan the general theme and outline of this book. All through the next months, they hurried to meet the ever-present deadlines—scheduling pictures, writing copy, making page plans, and compiling the indexes. Miss Ellen Shuart, the general director of journalistic activities, joined Miss Helen Turner and Miss Nina Grace Smith as a faculty adviser of the Tabula. The Tabula staff members were the first to move into room 48 and to enjoy the conveniences of a spacious publications workshop, with excellent lighting, typewriters, and filing facilities.

Mr. Earl E. Hoff was in charge of senior portraits. The majority of the other pictures were taken by members of the photography staff under the guidance of Mr. Gilman Lane.

The Tabula Publishing Board handles circulation, advertising, and finance for all three school publications. The centralization of this business agency eliminates confusion and makes specialization possible, both in the editorial and business phases of school journalism.

Under the guidance of Mr. Maurice King, the managers made contracts with printers and engravers, solicited advertisements, took care of circulation, ordered supplies, paid the bills, and balanced the budgets. The board was organized under five managers who directed the activities of supervisors, agents, and assistants. Thus an efficient business staff facilitated the work of all school publications.

Languages

By means of the study of the basic language, Latin, and the modern languages, French, Spanish, and German, our language departments are preparing students for careers in foreign service and other fields where a speaking knowledge of a language other than our own is essential. It may be that among those now learning to say "Good morning" and "What time is it?" is one who will carry on the work begun in San Francisco.

Let's follow Joe Dooper to the library. When he stops outside, he notices in the case there is a book display suggesting Valentine's Day. Inside, he pauses before the large poster which, this week, tells of conditions in China. He picks up a copy of Time, one of the twelve new magazines which the library has subscribed to, selects a book, perhaps one of the 164 books purchased this year, and settles down to read.

Citizens of the world of tomorrow are now studying the problems of today in the light of the past. From a comprehension of the governments of ancient Greece and Rome, they have progressed to a knowledge of the workings of the Pan-American

Saturday evening program
 The candlelight service

The theme of Girls' Conference this year was "One's World." Key girls and alternates, representing girls' clubs in school and all churches, worked together with the executive committee. The Conference weekend was highlighted by Miss Ruth Seabury's address on "How Big Is Your World?" and Miss Marie Shaver's talk on "My World — What Kind?" There were parley discussion groups on different phases of the main theme, a banquet with talks and a skit, and an impressive candlelight service and tea.

Girls' Club

Girls' Club is the only club in school that claims every girl in its membership. Its main purpose is to promote fellowship among the girls of the different classes and to bring about a feeling of unity through service.

The Cake and Cookie Collection was one of the varied activities of the year. With the generous contributions collected monthly in homerooms, much food for the servicemen's centers was purchased.

Freshmen stringing tags

Tag Day provided the funds for the traditional Christmas party for the children at the Chicago Commons. The Christmas stockings were made by volunteer groups of girls and filled with candy, toys, and trinkets. The delight on the faces of the children as they opened their stockings and ate their ice cream was the reward for all the hard work.

The social program included the big-sister senior party for freshmen, other class parties, and parties for new girls.

New this year were the open houses, held after school, on nursing, secretarial work, art, and other subjects. Girls received, sometimes from an outside speaker, information on their chosen professions and enjoyed meeting with other girls of similar interests.

In addition, Girls' Club sponsored the production of "Lost Horizon" and put on several assemblies.

Christmas Seals

About six weeks before Christmas vacation, the faculty advisers and the class supervisors began to plan the yearly Christmas Seal campaign, with the objective of raising enough money to support the Oak Park Health Center and to help in the fight against tuberculosis.

After the classroom agents were chosen and the rooms were canvassed, the race began, for each year there is a contest between the boys and girls to see which side can raise more money. Statistics on the daily accounts of each class were issued in the form of a poster showing a cross-country race.

The girls won, for the seventeenth time out of twenty-six, with a sales total of $5004.43. The boys, who were not far behind at any time during the race, finished with the almost equally good sum of $4534.28.

Victory Stamps

For almost four years the sale of victory stamps was part of our service to a world beyond the schoolroom. Under the sponsorship of Gavel and Forum, this activity had an important place on the weekly calendar. In December 1945 it was discontinued.

The total for this year was $5,384.68, an average weekly sale of $673.09. The grand total for the four years was $87,298.03.

Though we are no longer actively engaged in this work, we will not forget the fine spirit of the head cashier, the class cashiers, and the home room agents nor the fine cooperation of the student body. We are proud of our record.

Military Service Committee

The "one world" idea has been personified for us by the former students who have served their country in many parts of the globe. The school service list has more than 4,200 names.

The Military Service Committee has had the responsibility of keeping the records and of making necessary changes in the service flag. The committee members have spent many hours bringing the files up to date by constantly checking the newspapers, draft board lists, and the school records.

The work of this committee will remain as a permanent record in the years to come.

Hours of Play in the Days Ahead

Art

A paint-covered smock and a brush suggest to us the art students whom we glimpse through classroom doors at their fascinating work. Molding clay, finger painting, and sketching—such activities are for leisure as well as school hours.

This year new subjects, oil painting and silk screen painting, were introduced in the art classes. Students enjoyed the abstract design, the figure drawing, and the costume designing. They liked also the craft work, the project of painting nylon scarfs.

Much credit is due the stage and lights crew who gave time and effort to the production of the two plays of the year. The stage crew constructed, painted, and moved scenery. The lights crew created interesting effects to emphasize the atmosphere of contrasting scenes. Mr. Knowles Cooke directed the activities of both crews, assisted by Mr. James Kendall, in charge of scene construction.

The behind-the-scene workers richly deserved the spontaneous applause at each performance accorded to the results of their work.

"Lost Horizon"

The plaintive theme music set the mood of "Lost Horizon," the prologue introduced the plot, and the set—snow-capped Mount Karakul beyond the window of a room containing pieces of furniture loaned by Chinatown's City Hall—brought gasps of admiration from the audience.

The players, never stepping out of character, seemed as authentic as the setting and the costumes.

The audience became a part of the struggle between the eternal happiness of Shangri-La and the call of the outside world, and continued to wonder, with the actors in the epilogue, about the final outcome.

"Monsieur Beaucaire"

On March first and second the curtain rose on the senior class play, "Monsieur Beaucaire," an intriguing story of Bath, England, in the eighteenth century.

A period play has the charm of romantic setting and costuming. The mood of each scene was caught in the exquisite sets. The park scene employed some wonderful lighting. The effect was accented by a lovely marble statue of Hebe. The elegance of the ballroom scene was especially breath-taking. This scene was the highlight of the evening also because of the lovely dresses of the beauties of Bath and the beruffled and beribboned costumes of the dandies, emphasizing the faraway world of the 1700's. Charming couples gracefully danced to the strains of a minuet.

Even the characters were those of romance. The two leads, Monsieur Beaucaire and the Lady Mary Carlyse, personified the typical hero and heroine of Booth Tarkington's story. The Duc de Winterset strode about the stage in the accepted villainous fashion. Beau Nash, the king of Bath, stole the show with his snuff box and long golden curls. These outstanding characterizations were backed up by the excellent work of the supporting players. The cast more than deserved the ovations they received.

The committees who did the manual labor for the play were in part rewarded by the spontaneous applause accorded their work at the opening of the curtain. Many thanks go to Mr. Little and Miss Wood, and the orchestra and the double quartet for the appropriate background music.

Because of the complete cooperation and hard work of the cast, committees, musicians, and directors, "Monsieur Beaucaire" will be a class play long remembered.

Music

Fifteen years from now, some of us, in Row-S-center of Orchestra Hall, may be listening for the oboe part in the Egmont Overture, familiar to us since we played it in school. One or two of us may be in the string section of the orchestra. Listening or playing, we'll remember our high school work in music.

Perhaps that boy going in search of pheasants with his trusty shotgun or of bass with his favorite rod and plug, learned about guns or casting in Sportsmen's Club.

He probably listened eagerly to talks given there by noted sportsmen like C. R. Crawford and with his fellow sportsmen swapped yarns of outdoor adventure.

The varsity football team set the standards for the fall athletic season. The squad operated from a T formation utilizing speed, deception, and smooth ball handling, and had a balance, reserve strength, and spirit that enabled the Huskies to win the Suburban League championship. Twelve players gained All-Suburban recognition: Handke, Kritzer, Rustman, and Stanley won first-string berths on the All-League team; Rustman was placed on the All-State squad; and Kritzer received honorable mention.

The fresh-sophs suffered only one loss to gain second place in League competition. The jayvees and freshmen also vanquished every opponent to capture the "titles" of their respective unofficial circuits.

The Basketball Season in Review

1946 saw one of the most talented cage aggregations of recent years. Although tied for second with New Trier in the Suburban League standings, the Huskies beat nearly every team they met, including Decatur, the state champions in 1945. The ball-handling perfection of the Villagers helped the team win their regional tournament. Ray and Rowe were first-string All-League choices, and Handke was given honorable mention.

Stiff League competition proved too tough for the fresh-sophs, who occupied the cellar. High marks in an otherwise unsuccessful season were triumphs over Libertyville, Hinsdale, and Thornton of Harvey.

This year's jayvee squad was comprised entirely of juniors, a new organization intended to develop experienced varsity teams. Considering this third-year limitation, the jayvees had a better than average season and promise excellent varsity prospects for next year.

The freshman squad broke precedent to garner the League title this year. The basketball prowess of the greenies was so convincing that many predict that Oak Park will be the power in future cage circles. The underclassmen lost only to Morton, whom they had defeated earlier in the season.

Bang!

The varsity swimming team compiled a record of five victories against four defeats. Pre-season calisthenics, intended to speed up physical conditioning for the web-feet, were inaugurated this year. The pre-war competition with Clinton of Iowa was renewed, with disastrous results. The senior tankmen ranked third in Suburban League standings.

The fresh-sophs hit the jack-pot in scoring eight victories while suffering no defeats. The team showed much improvement during the year. Besides beating their arch-rivals, New Trier, the team won the Suburban League title. In winning the League meet, Hattersley established a new fifty-yard breaststroke record.

The Seventeenth Annual Gym Exhibit

Two thousand students demonstrated, before an audience of four thousand people, the work of the physical education classes in the Gym Exhibit presented March 8.

Girls' Sports

Four hundred girls from the rhythm classes put on a dance exhibit in January. Modern dance technique, based upon the fundamental movements of rhythm; dance composition, showing individual rather than group reaction to a musical score; and folk and square dances, in which the participants wore the colorful costumes of the countries they represented, were conventional parts of the program. Two novel numbers were included. "At Our School" portrayed the excitement of the Saturday football games with the cheerleader, the friendliness of our school, and the activities of the classrooms. "We the People" depicted the workingmen, the bluffers, and the busy-bodies common to this everyday world.

First Quarter

During the first quarter into which girls' physical education work was divided, instruction in swimming was given to those who must learn the basic strokes in order to pass the deep-water test, a requirement for graduation from school. Posture correction was required of those who did not pass the posture test given at the opening of school. The crack of the hockey stick, the yells of the girls as they hit the puck, the dull thud of the tennis ball as the beginners practiced shots against the gym wall, were all familiar sounds.

Second Quarter

Thanksgiving heralded the beginning of the second quarter's activities of general gym, dancing, and synchronized swimming. Folk, square, and modern dance were the three types of rhythm offered, accented by the clapping of hands, the stamping of feet, and the boom-boom of the tom-tom. Swimmers learned to keep their strokes correctly timed to waltz music, played against a background of splashing feet and arms, and to form intricate and lovely patterns.

Third Quarter

The classwork of the third quarter, exclusive of swimming, was devoted to getting ready for the gym exhibit. Rhythm was again offered, and each class period prepared a different dance. Marching and pyramids were practiced as usual. Games, wand drills, and work in small hand apparatus, were new features. Instruction in swimming consisted of preparation for lifesaving, intermediate, and advanced swimming tests.

Fourth Quarter

In the last quarter, beginning after spring vacation, attention is again given to outdoor activities. At this time the more advanced tennis players can better their game and compete in the inter-class tournament.

For those who have completed their posture and swimming requirements but who are not advanced tennis players, there are soccer and baseball, other sports in which there is inter-class competition.

Atalanta is the girls' physical education club. The hundred points, which are required for admission, are earned by participation in after-school activities such as basketball, archery, and swimming, and by meeting certain health standards.

Atalanta has two main projects. The girls give the annual dance to honor the football and soccer teams. They also sell Easter Seals for the Illinois Association of the Crippled.

Out on a limb

Cozy couple

Sea duty?

Smile purty

How's tricks?

Way back when

Hmm—

Ah! Sand Lo

FIFTY-FOUR YEARS

AT THIS LOCATION

Very possibly your grandfather was a depositor here 54 years ago, when this bank opened for business near its present location.

In so long a period the character of an institution is firmly set and its reputation for fair dealing is established.

And in that time the Oak Park Trust has grown into the community, has learned what services its people require—has learned that many a small account becomes a large one.

We are here to care for your business, no matter how small, and to advise and confer with you on financial matters.

to thank

The Faculty for their fine co-operation:

The Engravers for their excellent reproduction of our photographs, and all who have assisted so splendidly in the making of the High School Annual.

Our congratulations to the graduates, and we trust the association of this year may continue happily through the years ahead.
